Cox Geelen

Cox Geelen

Cox Geelen replaced daily backup work with a managed service.

A Dutch manufacturer of flue systems, ventilation and heat pump housings, founded in 1871 and working in production shifts.

"Simplicity, ease of use and maximum security. No risk of data loss in a hack."

Frans Kluijtmans

then ICT manager, Cox Geelen

The situation

Backups ran on premises and took time every day. When applications moved to the cloud, the backup set-up had to change too, and building a new one would cost time, money and expertise.

What we did	Backup of Microsoft 365, physical servers and virtual servers: a local copy, a copy in a Dutch data centre and a locked copy that nobody can change or delete. We do the implementation, the management and the support, and watch the backups around the clock.
The result	Less time spent on troubleshooting, no more doubt about the GDPR, and room for the ICT manager to work on other projects.
